

Servicio de Archivo y Publicaciones

Self-Archiving Permission and Access Policy

Self-Archive Permission

Authors are authorized to publish their work on the Internet (for example, in institutional repositories or personal web pages) after two years from the publication of the corresponding volume (in no case before this period, nor the files handled in the layout process in the proofreading phase).

Access Policy

Archivo Hispalense is maintained in printed format through subscription. It's not free. However, the task of making available open access to its entire historical collection to researchers and the public is being undertaken. Currently, all the content published between 1943 and 2010 are uploaded in open access.

Users have the right to read, download, copy, distribute, print, search and link the full texts of their articles, provided that the authorship and original source of the publication is cited; is not used for commercial purposes and this use license is mentioned, Creative Commons license (typically CC BY)

(Approved by Resolution of the Deputy of Culture and Citizenship number 5617/2022 of August 2)

The Archivo Hispalense Magazine is financed and edited by the Provincial Council of Seville.

Publication in this journal is free of article processing charges and does not impose any costs on the authors.